In his address before the Young Men's Hebrew Association at Carnegie Music Hall on last Tuesday night Dr. Briggs averred that biblical criticism was "sifting the rubbish" in the Bible. and said :-

"In the case of Jonah, after a desperate contest, the anti-critics will eventually come over to the position of the critics, that Jonah is an inspired work of the imagination, a beautiful reli-gious story, and so escape the storm of historical criticism to the safe harbor of

Rev. Dr. Robert Sample, who was

Jonah' is historically accurate in all its details. Most assuredly I believe that Jonah was swallowed by some great fish and lived in it for three days and three nights. Tradition says that he was cast up on the coast of Assyria, be-tween Tyre and Acre. I had the exact traditional spot pointed out to me when I was in Assyria some years ago.

"The Bible does not say that Jonah was swallowed by a whale, but by a great fish. There is a fish in the sea to-day which has a throat large enough to swallow Jonah. I looked the matter up once and I think the fish capable of swallowing a human being is a white

Referring to the question of Dr. Briggs, "What will you do if the histo-ry of Nineveh has no place for Jonah?" Dr. Sample said that it indicated that accept anything that was not sustained by the history of the times. The higher critics, he said, were often in error as to their facts and many of their former pet theories had been overthrown by historical discoveries.

Rev. Dr. John J. Stevenson, who was also one of those who prosecuted Dr. Briggs, said when shown his remarks about Jonah: "There is nothing new in this. He is at liberty to say any-thing he pleases about Jonah. I don't care about saying anything about Dr. Briggs' opinion. If I should say anything about this it would be looked upon as a personal criticism of Dr. Briggs. I have no feeling against him. He is a good fellow. When I finished my

Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst said that he did not care to express an opinion as to whether he leieved the "Book of Jonah" was historically correct or whether the story of Jonah and the whale was an allegory. He said that the Presbyterian Church accepted it as a historical narrative, but it as a historical narrative, but that many in it believe as Dr. Briggs does. Personally, he said, he did not think it was necessary for any practical person to bother his head about the question of whether the story of Jonah and the whale was a historical fact or an inspired work of the imagination. The conservative element in the church, he said, would, of course, accuse Dr Briggs of another heresy-N. Y. Her-

A SINGLE FARE .- A widow who gave her name as Mrs. Simpson came into the Union depot Thursday over the C. B. and Q road from Pierre, S. D., with eight children. They all rode on one ticket. That was the one the mother had bought for herself. The entire Union Depot force was laughing about it. The widow had changed roads sev-eral times. Each time she met a new conductor a row ensued, but she came out victorious every time. The child-ren were all small. The railway rules allow children under 6 years of age to ride free. "Are they all your children; the conductor would ask. "Yes, sir, they are. Don't they look like me?" 'Well, I can't carry all of them, for some of them are over 6 years old." "Why, there are two pairs of twins in among them," she would exultantly ex-claim; then all the passengers would laugh, and the entire delegation got their little feet on the one ticket and rode safely through.—Cincinnati En-
